COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Quite a few changes have been made in the traffic flow and speed limit in town. The selectmen received a petition from the residents of Spring Street that changes be made on that street to make it safer for children. The street is narrow and in need of major repairs. There are a lot of children on the street and there is a lot of traffic. In the interest of safety, the selectmen have decided to make the street one-way. Traffic will be allowed to enter from Main Street but not from Mason Street. The new regulation will start when signs are purchased and installed.

The selectmen have asked the State Highway Commission to change the speed limit on lower Main Street from 30 m. p. h. to 25 m. p. h. The request is under investigation by the Highway Department Speed Regulation Board. The results of that board should be forthcoming in a short while.

The selectmen have also voted to install yield signs at certain designated spots. Quite a few complaints have been received by the selectmen and at the town office concerning the excessive speed of cars on the town streets. The selectmen plan to take action on the speed and sign problems at a future meeting.

The tarring program is moving along at a very nice rate. The work should be completed by the end of this week or the first of next week. The weather has been clear every day so no days have been lost. The town crew will start cutting diseased elm trees when the tarring is done. Only a limited number can be cut by the town crew. The remainder will have to be taken down by a tree company or experienced concern.

BRITON TO BE GUEST AT WOODSTOCK SESQUI CENTENNIAL

A former mayor of Woodstock's English namesake will be the principal speaker at ceremonies commemorating the 150th anniversary of Woodstock.

Alderman Henry Tothill of Woodstock, England, accepted the town's invitation to speak at the sesqui centennial that is to be celebrated August 6 and 7.

In 1953, when the English Woodstock celebrated its 500th anniversary, it invited representatives of the Maine town to the celebration.

Actually, the citizens of Woodstock would have named it Sparta if they had their own way, but when the petition was returned from the General Court of Massachusetts in 1815, it had been changed to Woodstock in honor of the old English town.

THIRD NTL SESSION HAS 349 ENROLLED

Session III of the 1965 Summer Laboratories of the National Training Laboratories, a division of the National Education Association, began Sunday in Bethel with 349 delegates and staff registered for four major programs. In addition there are three other programs for wives and children of the enrollees.

Dr. Leland Bradford of Washington, D. C., is overall director of the laboratories which utilize the facilities of Gould Academy, as well as the NTL's Conference Center, the former Gehring estate, at the head of Broad Street.

In progress at the Conference Center is the laboratory for Conflict with an enrollment of 62; and the NTL Day Camp for boys and girls, aged 4 through 13, with an enrollment of 65.

At the campus, the programs and enrollments are two human relations labs with combined enrollment of 122, school administrators 49; and organization interns, 31. A staff of 78 handles administration, research, training, housing and family services and day camp.

TREE COMMITTEE MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS TO SELECTMEN

The Shade Tree Committee appointed by the Selectmen at the last Town Meeting, to look into the Dutch elm disease problem and other Town shade tree matters, have held a series of meetings to work out a recommended plan of action. It was decided by the concensus of the committee at the first meeting held in May that the control or abatement of the Dutch elm disease was by far the first order of business.

It was then recommended to the Selectmen that a dormant spray should be applied to the elm trees during the latter part of May to aid in the control of the elm bark beetle which is the carrier of the Dutch elm disease. Goodall Tree Expert Company was engaged to spray all of the elm trees on Town property such as the Common and the elm trees hanging over or shading the streets and sidewalks of the Town proper.

The Committee then recommended that the Town remove, or cause to be removed, all of the diseased, dead or dying elm trees on Town property or hanging over the streets of the Town proper. The Committee has been busy looking over these trees and has marked with orange paint, those trees recommended for Town removal. The Town crew will cut and remove all of these trees that it is possible for them to. The remaining trees will be put out to bid for cutting by a reputable tree company.

The Committee also recommended that all diseased, dead or dying elm trees located on private property be cut by the owners and then hauled to the dump by the Town crew as far as the money lasted.

Members of the Shade Tree Committee will plan to look over all properties within the village limits and inform the owners of the presence of Dutch elm disease in their trees. The trees will be suitably marked for removal if the owner so wishes. Since it will be necessary to hire a tree expert company to remove many of the Town trees, the private owners may also want to have their work accomplished at the same time. Because of the large amount of work to be accomplished in town, it is hoped that a lower rate for tree removal may be offered.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 28, 1965

To the Editor:

I have just had the unfortunate experience of suffering some fire loss to my mill on the West Bethel Road. Until one has gone through this adversity, it is very easy to accept without too much appreciation the excellent fire protection we, the the citizens of Bethel, enjoy. I have nothing but the highest praise for the fire chief, Roderick S. McMillin, and his men for the professional way by which they handled a potentially disastrous condition when they arrived and reduced this potential to a comparatively light loss with minimum inconvenience to continued operation. Yes, the citizens of Bethel have every reason to be proud of their Fire Department and the men who man the equipment. They stand up for comparison with the professional crews of our cities. Our tax money spent for their function is indeed well spent. Had it not been for their efficiency last week, a property might well have been lost from the tax list, and many families through their wage earners would have been affected. May I take this opportunity through your columns to express my appreciation for a job well done.

The Editor
The Bethel Citizen

Mark Cynrot's continuing concern in the Bethel Community breathes new life into this column. He always arouses interest. It is good to have so articulate a spokesman to stir the animals up and arouse sometimes tired public conscience.

This is not to say that some of us agree with the burden of his lament of the July 15 issue, or his allegations. But he makes a good point or two. And like our State Department talks with the Russians, his comments are "useful."

As I read it Mr Cynrot suggests in a roundabout way that some sort of planning agency be organized to cope with old town-caused economic and police problems soon to engulf Bethel, its citizens, its merchants, and its children. New planners crave us half to death. Their declaration and zeal and their grandiose ideas and their utter concentration on folly, like the runaway horse of yesterday, evoke the cold shivers of fear up my spine. Their fatal responsibility is akin to a run on the bank. Too often they achieve the same results. While I fear the planolith a switchblade attack with which he may have had some personal experience at another time, in another place. This, of course, would require a Constabulary whose alertness Mr. Cynrot may underestimate as badly as he does its numbers.

As to the socks, some of us feel that the surer, if slower law of supply and demand, the spark plug of the free enterprise system, will handle things here. Mr. Cynrot fears sockless, sorefooted collegians who may be so incensed as to threaten his contemplative and tranquil moments on the new benches of the Bethel Common so near to his heart. He is apprehensive of rude remarks or possibly. Like the label on so many brands nowadays instant success gets to be misleading. But let our storekeepers see a few barefooted students and the shelves will bulge with new shipments of socks, Half-Wellingtons, stretch-pants, Lee's riders, sweatshirts, and perhaps even flowered prints and little unmentionables for impulse buying. It may that B. Altman, or Rogers, Peet & Co. may hesitate to open branch stores, but the Bethel collegian need not encounter his first January thaw in a naked state.

As to our police power (and in taxation it is hoped) we are fortunate to have an alert Sheriff's Department in Oxford County, with a proven resident deputy and seven "count 'em" constables, a resident State Police officer, and a county attorney who just loves to get convictions when they are justified. Let Mr Cynrot take comfort in the fact that he will continue to be safer here in Bethel than in Brooklyn, N Y and he can buy socks, too.

Improvement at the Bethel Post Office. One of the major provements being made at the local post office is the enlarging and raising of the loading platform at the rear. The new platform extends nine feet from the enlarged door way and is the same height as the floor inside. The old platform was only four feet wide. Interior changes include enlargement of the work area and a remodeling of the lobby.

DOINGS IN WASHINGTON

by Congressman William D. Hathaway

Today, a revolutionary, exciting new concept in American law is being considered. Soon poor people will be able to receive free legal services. Immediate programs are being developed by the Office of Economic Opportunity to provide federal funds for lawyers to give free legal services to the poor.

During our entire history as a nation, poor people have not been equally treated under our laws. Many can not afford legal advice, much less afford the costs of taking a case to court. Many who can afford trial court costs cannot afford to appeal their cases to the higher courts. This inequity has continued despite the free services offered by many individual lawyers, law school legal aid groups, and lawyers appointed by the courts to handle certain indigent cases. This situation presents one of the most glaring faults in our otherwise great legal system. The Sixth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution guarantees to every citizen "the right to a speedy and public trial." Not until two years ago did the Supreme Court enforce this basic constitutional right in a criminal case for an imprisoned man who had been denied his right to the services of an attorney because of his low economic status. Now we have the opportunity to end this discrepancy between our constitutional guarantee of the right to a trial and the actual practices in our courts by providing legal aid, legal knowledge, and the capability of legal attack for all citizens, not just the well-to-do.

Although the Poverty Bill of 1964 says nothing specific about federally-financed lawyer programs, it does contain a broad provision for granting federal funds to local community action programs to attack and cure the basic causes of poverty. Today each American locality involved in the anti-poverty program is being invited to submit proposals to Washington for a program of legal services for the poor. On account of a lack of knowledge about their legal rights, many poor people are often unable to break the seemingly irreversible cycle of poverty because other individuals illegally impose financial burdens on them. Many poor people today would be granted justice and fair treatment under our laws in such areas as Social Security, landlord-tenant relations, and child abuse if they could take their grievances to courts with the advice and services of lawyers.

Above the massive pillars of the Supreme Court building are the words: "Equal Justice Under Law." As the program for legal services is implemented, we shall witness a vital step towards fulfilling this ideal, and history will surely evaluate it as our just response to the challenge to make our system a true democracy.

20 SECONDS WITH THE NAZARENE

In ancient times a cross used to be set up at the place where the market was to be held. If strangers asked where they could get such and such things they were told to go to the cross for them. The Cross of Christ is God's market-place for the world. Stranger, if you want pardon, life, and rest, go to the Cross. But you must buy without money.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF WOODSTOCK, MAINE

by Ralph M. Bacon

Our population, which reached 1,025 in 1860, now stands at 930 by the last census. While our village has slowly increased, many of the old farms are now returning to forests, and some citizens still living on farms find employment at the paper mill in Rumford and in wood-working mills, including the two we have in town.

The mill which Ziba Andrews built at South Woodstock, back in the early days of the town, has continued in business up to the present time, and is the oldest industry in Woodstock, having been carried on in the same family for five generations. Today it is a modern plant, manufacturing burial caskets. The business also provides undertaking services and funeral parlors.

In recent years North Woodstock has shown new growth with the building of several new homes.

A few years ago Woodstock became the site of a State Conservation School, the Freeman-Waterhouse Conservation Camp, on the shore of Lake Christopher. This has done much to publicize our town as teachers and students attend this school from other parts of Maine.

We cannot conclude this sketch without mention of our churches. We are proud of the fact that we have three active churches and five church edifices. The Baptists, Universalists, and Seventh Day Adventists are all active with church edifices at each end of the village and at East Woodstock. The little church at North Woodstock is used for a Sunday School, and the former Methodist Church at South Woodstock is kept in repair and used as a community house. The Universalist Church was the first one to be built here soon after Bryant Pond became our town center.

To all who have resided in this town, to all who love to come here as summer residents, Woodstock with its charming village, Bryant Pond, its five lakes like jewels surrounded by the forests and mountains, forms one of the beauty spots of Maine. Many of us come from cities for a few weeks of life in this country town, which is a second home for us. We love the big boom of the Baptist church bell, which, by the way, has a history too long to include in this sketch. We love the mellow tones of the new chimes of the Universalist Church. We love the loud, clear whistles of the spool factory, and the chime whistle of the clothespin factory. These sounds show life and activity here.

A few years after our Centennial in 1915 the citizens organized the Woodstock Chamber of Commerce. The town was well advertised through the quarterly publication of The Woodstock Chamber of Commerce Journal. The Chamber did much in its few years of existence to interest the citizens in securing electricity for lighting our village and farm homes.

A Chamber of Commerce is a forum for the discussion of the needs of a town and of the best ways to take actions to meet those needs. This little town in the Oxford Hills deserves the best its citizens can give it. Let us, in the near future, organize a new Woodstock Chamber of Commerce, with the women of the town included in the membership. Let us make a study of the needs of Woodstock and do what we can to keep it moving forward, to make it one of the cleanest and best little towns in Maine. We must look forward if we are to progress. May the elegance of yesteryear, which we have tried to show in this sketch, lead into the better promise of tomorrow.

COUNTY COMM. TO GIVE DECISION IN MONTH ON PROPOSED PARK LAND

Eli Gaudet, Jr., of Rumford, chairman of the Oxford County Commissioners, states a decision will be given in about a month on two petitions heard last week at the Screw Auger Falls area.

The petitioners, Albert Kimball of Bethel and Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Auger of Newry, have appealed the price offered them by the state through the Department of Parks and Recreation, for parcels of land desired for Grafton Notch State Park.

Representing the state at the hearing was Asst. Attorney General Leon V. Walker, Jr. David Hastings of Fryeburg was counsel for the Augers and Kimball.

Presenting testimony supporting the price offered by the state were Wesley O. Taylor of Augusta, real estate appraiser, retained by the state to appraise parcels in the area; Toppan Kimball of Bridgton, consulting forester; and Lawrence Stuart, director of parks and recreation.

Heard for the petitioners' contention for a higher sum, were the petitioners themselves, Donald Cross of Bethel, timberland owner and operator, and Huch Hastings II of Fryeburg, timberland owner, and woodlands manager for a Westbrook firm.

In the event the commissioners' decision is not favorable to the parties involved, the next procedure would be to present the matter in Superior Court.

WEEK IN OXFORD CO.

Lawns, pastures, fields and woodlands are showing the effect of prolonged drought conditions throughout the County. In many areas water supplies are very low.

At the special meeting of the Board of Directors of SAD 17 it was voted to call for bids as soon as possible for the construction of a new high school on the former Oxford County Fair Grounds. The Supreme Court's decision Friday stated that the district had the right to take the Oxford County Fair Grounds by eminent domain. The question of the association to hold a fair this fall was not discussed at the special meeting.

First place trophies were awarded to Robert Shand Unit V FW Auxiliary of Rumford at the department convention. The trophies were for the unit's work in the areas of Civil Defense and Ways and Means.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the two and one-half story house on the Charles Hall farm in Oxford last Tuesday. Helen was called from Norway and South Paris. The place was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Barker and family. Loss was estimated at $11,000.

Bean Hole Bean Festival is all set for Saturday, July 31, at South Paris on the Oxford County Fairgrounds. Serving lines will open at 2 p. m. A varied program will entertain the public during the day.

Donald McNally, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McNally, Cold Water Brook Road, Norway, was accidentally killed Monday evening when a .22 caliber bullet exploded. According to an official report the boy was attempting to make a fire cracker from the bullet.

Colin R. Voter, of West Peru, was drowned late Saturday evening while swimming at Portage Lake.

Four persons were hospitalized early Tuesday morning when the car in which they were riding left Route 26 and struck an unoccupied mobile home at Twin Town Trailer Sales, opposite the Oxford Plains Speedway. Mrs. Albina J. LeBlond of Lewiston was driver of the car, according to the State Police. Taken to Norway hospital were Dean Webster, Lisbon Falls; Idolyne Ouellette, Louise Derosea and Theresa Dufresne, all of Auburn.

Two young men were being sought by law enforcement officials at last reports. They are identified as Peter H. EARTHLING "SPACE" RACE — Today's logger and general woodcutter now finds his sawing projects reduced to hip-pocket size.
Nestled with this timberman's hardness is a power chain saw, claimed by McCulloch Corporation, the manufacturer, to be the lightest weight and smallest sized, high-powered chain saw in the world.
Weighing only 10½ lbs. without bar and chain, the extremely portable power tool will reduce a weekend of worrying wood-chopping to no more than a few hours of satisfying outdoor activity.

Dear friends,

We have seen so many misunderstandings and hardships brought about because the deceased had made no will, that we feel justified in mentioning it.

A will usually reduces probate expenses, inheritance taxes, and contributes to family harmony.

We do advise professional aid to assure a properly drawn will.

Respectfully,

MISS KNEELAND TO SPEAK AT BETHEL NAZARENE CHURCH

Miss Harriet Kneeland, daughter of Mrs. Jane Kneeland and the late Dr. Gerald Kneeland, formerly of Bethel, will be speaking and showing slides at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene, on Sunday, August 1st at 7:00 p. m., on the work of the Wycliffe Bible Translators. Miss Kneeland is a member of the organization and has been assigned to Peru after completing a session at jungle survival camp.

Harriet is a graduate of Gould Academy, class of 1959, and of Houghton College, Houghton, N. Y., in 1963. She attended two sessions of Wycliffe's Institute of Linguistics at Norman, Okla.

While at the jungle camp in the state of Chiapas, Mexico, Harriet was learning to live in the primitive and isolated areas of the world which constitute Wycliffe's field of work. She had to learn to live in the jungle, in an emergency, with only a machete to provide food, shelter, and protection for herself.

The Wycliffe Bible Translators' organization, which has its headquarters in Santa Ana, Calif., has as its objective the translation of the Bible into the 2,000 languages which are spoken but do not have any written form. For the most part, the 150,000,000 people who speak these languages live in isolated, underdeveloped areas of the world in very primitive conditions. WBT is now working in 16 countries in 30 languages and has 1582 members.

The public is cordially invited to attend this service.
